Back to England's brutal ninth century we're going! In the second series, Uhtred begins his journey north to avenge the death of Count Ragnar and reclaim his ancestral lands in Bebbanburg - but he becomes caught up in a rescue mission with an old enemy. Meanwhile, King Alfred is still on a mission to unite the kingdoms of England. Expect more deaths, betrayals and ruthless political manoeuvres. Meet the cast of the second series of The Last Kingdom: Alexander Dreymon as Hrnet from Bebbanburg, Alexander Dreymon as Uhtred, our controversial hero. Born into the Saxon nobility, but grew up Dane, when his father was defeated in battle, he is a natural warrior and leader. It is managed by the urgent need to reclaim his homeland in Bebbanburg, Northumbria, and is partly based on Uhtred Bold, from the 11th century. The actor himself also starred in the BBC2 special Christopher and his Appearance alongside Doctor Who's Matt Smith, and in American Horror Story: Coven as Luke Ramsey. Tobias Santelmann as Ragnar the Younger Ragnar Jr. is the son of Count Ragnar, a Danish warlord who adopted Uhtred after he captured him in battle as a child and initially held him as a slave. Ian Hart as Becca Becca the Saxon priest, who saw Uhtred grow from boy to man, initially re-baptised him after his name was changed from Osbert. He is a disciple of Alfred, who meets Uhtred again in adulthood, and still hopes to cure his pagan beliefs.
